

Important things

1. Parents are a role model that have to educate and encourage good values and attitudes.
2. Help kids to accomplish their commitments in the practice of sport: organize the time so they can combine studies, sport and other activities. Always trying to be punctual to training sessions and matches.
3. Teach your kids the respect for the facilities and the material that is given to them.
4. Parents should know that the team is the main thing, and that they should cooperate to make everything work for the better.

The stands are burning

At sport and at life children need tools, no yellings.

Probably everyone will agree that parents do what they believe is best for their children, but good intentions do not guarantee success. Help your children to achieve their goals, supporting them and encouraging them to improve themselves is very positive.

Negative attitudes from trainers, teachers and parents

1. Team sports are better than individual sports.
2. Teach children to keep playing even if they aren't fit, makes their character stronger.
3. Don't allow children to abandon the team. Let them overcome any difficulty first.
4. Children should start to practise a sport at a young age.

Let your children choose... or

He might lose interest in other sports.

He won't feel any joy in the practice.

He will be bored.

He won't play.

No communication at all.

No social social supporting.

He will abandon the team.
